Originally designed in 1928 for a villa in the Ville d Avray, the first public introduction of this model was at the Salon d"Automne des Artistes Dcorateurs in Paris in 1929. Known as the LC1 Basculant Sling Chair, the design concept has been suggested to resemble the British officer chair design. Le Corbusier designed the chair with an automatic reclining system which allows the user to adjust the reclining position to the desired comfort position.

Our Basculant Chair was inspired by the LC1 Sling Chair, which we make at one of our contract manufacturer who we have been working with for over 10 years. Their products have features exceeding any other similar models on the market.
